" YouTube responded: "Our partners do not have the right to take down videos from YT unless they own the rights to them or they are live performances controlled through exclusive agreements with their artists, which is why we reinstated it.. " The video was subsequently returned to YouTube, and the reasons for the UMG takedown remain unclear.. Lawyers for will i am initially claimed that he had never agreed to the project, but on December 12, 2011 he denied any involvement in the takedown notice.

UMG said that the takedown was "pursuant to the UMG-YouTube agreement" which gives UMG "the right to block or remove user-posted videos through YouTube's CMS (Content Management System) based on a number of contractually specified criteria.
